Terms of Accounting & Charging

Personalized profile usage and download transactions consume Service Credits which are purchased in a pre-paid mode. The following rules apply:

Regarding personalized profiles:

- The fee for the initial six-month minimum committed usage period is due on the day the usage starts and shall be deducted from customer's Service Credit balance latest at the first of the following month.
- After the six months initial period, which is charged upfront, the regular monthly fee for a personalized profile is calculated per calendar month and will be deducted from customer's Service Credit balance latest on the first of the following month.
- Cancellation of an individual personalized profile needs to be requested via the service desk. It can be done with a two week notice period to the end of each month.

Regarding download transactions:

- The fee is calculated at the first of each month for the previous month and then deduce from customer's Service Credit balance.

Insufficient Service Credit balance will result in a suspension of service delivery until the Service Credit balance has been topped-up. In case the consumption exceeds the Service Credit balance already during a month, service suspension may already happen then.

Potential service pricing adjustments in the future in accordance with the „General Terms and Conditions for Managed IT Services“ will change the amount of Service Credits consumed for a service element (e.g. a download transaction). The price point of a Service Credit will remain unchanged. This means that from the point in time when a service pricing adjustment becomes effective, service consumption will result in a respectively adjusted consumption of Service Credits.
